HISTORY.

The Howe School owes its existence to the generosity of Dr. Zadoc Howe of Billerica, who, at his death in 1851, made provision for the founding of a school which should meet the demands of those who wished to pursue studies of a more advanced nature than were offered in the town schools and which should prepare students for college.

It was dedicated on May 31, 1852, and began its active life with an enrolment of fifty-two pupils under the direction of William C. Grant and Miss Elizabeth Rogers.

For many years the school drew boys and girls not only from adjoining towns but from neighboring States, and has ever been a credit to the town.

It has been careful of its integrity, stable in its character, and honest in its management. During the forty-five years of its existence but five men have been at its head, a record that is rarely being duplicated in schools of its size at the present time.

IMPROVEMENTS IN THE BUILDING.

Up to within a year the building remained in essentially the same condition as at its dedication. During the summer of 1896, however, radical changes were introduced, conforming more to the spirit of the town and the character of modern school work. The lower hall, hitherto used solely for exhibitions, was remodelled and adapted to serve as the main assembly room; the room up-stairs, formerly used for that purpose, being now made into a recitation room, while the old recitation room became a store-room for books, chemicals, and physical apparatus. New stair ways were made, the walls and woodwork tinted and painted, and the building placed in thorough repair. Up to this time the only method of heating was by stoves, while ventilation was a feature hardly considered. It is extremely gratifying, therefore, that in the renovations, the most improved method of heating and hot-air ventilation was introduced, which has given perfect satisfaction.

At present, the building is neat and attractive in its interior, and amply large for all that is required of it.

By means of entertainments, lectures, etc., funds have been raised sufficient to pay for a modern set of cyclopædias, and other books for reference not yet decided upon. Several pictures, maps, and a very fine elk's head have been placed on the walls.

It seems most fitting that as the high school of the town, it should be the recipient of books of reference, and works of art in the form of pictures and casts. We demand beauty to surround us in our homes, our churches, and public buildings, and certainly ought not to ignore the decoration of that building within whose walls our children pass four of the most receptive years of their lives.

The question of school decoration is by no means an unimportant one.

THE HOWE SCHOOL THE HIGH SCHOOL OF BILLERICA.

By vote of the town, March 16, 1891, and by special legislation, April 24, 1891, the Howe School now supplies the place of the required town High School. The value of Dr. Howe's gift is thus appreciated from a pecuniary as well as an educational standpoint.

Modern education demands an increased number of electives in the school program, and a laboratory method of instruction which necessitates many reference books and much physical and chemical apparatus. Such a method of instruction requires longer recitation periods and calls for either a larger teaching force or longer day sessions of school.

There is a natural limit to the number of hours boys and girls can be made to work in school effectively and it is inadvisable to attempt more. The result, therefore, is that modern schools are enlarging the number of their teachers and specializing the work, improving their standard thereby.

The Trustees are alive to these conditions and while the standard of the school is and must be maintained to the point of ability to fit for college, they also freely realize the possibilities for greater usefulness which a larger endowment would insure.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Candidates for admission to the school must pass satisfactory examinations in Geography, Arithmetic, Grammar, and United States History, evincing from the character of their papers an ability to write plainly and spell accurately.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION.

Diplomas are conferred upon all who complete one of the courses in a satisfactory manner, i. e., upon all who receive a minimum rank of 65%.

Medals are conferred at graduation upon those who have shown marked proficiency in scholarship, with regularity in attendance and excellence in behavior.

Courses of study as taught in the school are subjoined. In Latin and Greek the aim is to conform to the recommendations approved by the New England Commission of Colleges. Their recommendations are inserted after the courses. They have been adhered to closely during the past year.

Following is the list of graduates. An attempt has been made to give a short summary of each life, including date and place of birth, advanced schools attended, if any, occupation and present address, or date of death. In collecting and tabulating so many dates as this has necessitated, it is very probable that mistakes will appear. If any are noticed it will be a favor to the principal of the school to have them reported to him.

The list of pupils admitted is also given, but no attempt has been made to collect data, as in the case of graduates, owing to the magnitude of the undertaking. Perhaps in the preparation of a later catalogue it may be done. No responsibility therefore is assumed for list of pupils up to 1885, except in case of graduates.
